Pipe by pipe, city washes away brown-water blues

Down the drain.
Water main cleaning gets underway this weekend

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

The city kicks off its annual water main cleaning program this Saturday, about a month behind schedule due to this year's frozen pipes emergency.

Geoff Patton, manager of engineering services for the City of Winnipeg, said the goal for this weekend until the fall is to clean 646 kilometres of water mains, which is about a quarter of the total number in the city.

The water main cleaning program sees all of Winnipeg serviced over six years; however, due to the discoloured — or brown — water issue, the city has chosen to condense the program over two years.

"Our commitment is to provide clean, safe water to the city and citizens of Winnipeg," said Patton, adding the cost is estimated at $250,000 and will be paid for through the utility.

City crews will be cleaning mains seven days a week, from 8 a.m. until as late as 11 p.m. This weekend's work will take place in River Heights and the Dufferin neighbourhood, at Jarvis Avenue and Sinclair Street.

Patton said this is one of many measures the city is taking to tackle the brown water problem.

In March, the water and waste department switched to a new type of coagulant with less manganese to treat drinking water.

Back in January, an independent consulting firm found that manganese was the main culprit behind last summer's brown water woes. The report made several recommendations on how to deal with the problem.

While the number of calls for brown water is similar to 2013, Patton said in areas where the measures have been implemented, the city has seen a reduction in the number of reports. Those experiencing brown water are asked to file a report at 311 city services — by phone or online.

Geoff Patton, manager of engineering services for the City of Winnipeg, said 'progress has been made' on the city's discoloured water fight. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

Cadets could soon be patrolling city buses

Coun. Brian Mayes
BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

A city report is recommending police cadets join new inspectors on Winnipeg Transit buses.

The report, which will be tabled at Friday's infrastructure renewal and public works committee meeting, would see two cadets start patrolling buses in September, at a cost of $48,385 for the last three months of this year. The cadets' cost for 2015 and subsequent years is estimated at $85,625.

The city's preliminary 2014 budget approved last December included funding for six full-time equivalent foot patrol inspectors who would have hit the streets on July 1, however, a debate over what powers these inspectors would have — and also what training — slowed down the process.

Coun. Brian Mayes has long advocated for improved safety measures on buses for passengers and transit staff.

Mayes said he's "pleased to see that we're finally recognizing there's a role for the police here," adding that transit, police and union officials all worked to smooth out the "wrinkles."

If approved at the public works committee, the report would move on to executive policy committee and city council. It also needs the support of the Winnipeg Police Board. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

Winnipeg's stand-up comedy scene is getting serious.

It's survived for years in front of sparse crowds at small bars, but things are now changing. Nowhere is that change more obvious than the Winnipeg Comedy Showcase, which returns to the Park Theatre on Friday night after selling out two shows earlier this year.

Woman stabs, robs elderly man in his own home

A 71-year-old man is recovering after he was followed into his home on Boyd Avenue and attacked on Monday.

Local police said the man found a woman sitting on his front porch at about 9:30 p.m. on June 30. The woman

The pair fought before the woman produced a weapon and stabbed the man. She stole some property and then ran. The man was taken to hospital with non-life-threatening injuries. Police are looking for an aboriginal woman, 25-30 years old with a medium build and long black hair. METRO

Sex killer Bernardo engaged?

'Love' behind bars.

There's nothing the government can do about it, says Justice Minister

Federal Justice Minister Peter MacKay says there's nothing the government can do to prevent Paul Bernardo from communicating with a woman who is reportedly planning to marry the convicted killer.

"That's not really an issue before the Justice Department," MacKay said Thursday.

"There hasn't been an action. There hasn't been preventative steps taken to prevent contact ... We can't stop a person from communicating through letters and emails unless there is something that is seen as harassing or criminal in its intent."

Convicted killer Paul Bernardo is serving an indeterminate sentence for the slayings of two schoolgirls, a dozen rapes and more than two dozen other sex offences — but there

Marriage to a convict

- If the marriage did take place, Corrections Canada would determine if Bernardo would be allowed to meet with his wife behind bars.
- Prisoners are permitted private visits of up to 72 hours once every two months. A former inmate told Torstar News Service that prisoners often are able to increase that visiting time in swaps with other inmates.

are still women who reportedly want to marry him.

The latest is reported to be a 30-year-old university graduate from London, Ont., who began corresponding with Bernardo last fall, according to QMI news agency.

Corrections Canada declines to comment on individual cases. But Tim Danson, a lawyer for the families of the murdered schoolgirls, has plenty to say. "He should not be given any privileges," Danson told Torstar News Service on Thursday.

He also said the woman who considers herself to be Bernardo's fiancée needs plenty of help. "People close to her have to reach out to her and save her from herself," he said. "Just the thought of it is disturbing."

Still, there are plenty of women who struggle to make contact with Bernardo through letters. One website for prisoners' families features a hot discussion on whether it's right to try to make contact with Bernardo. "I write to Paul all the time, I send him cards and no I don't have a fetish for concrete!" a woman who identified herself as "shoes" wrote. "I have read many books on his crimes and for some reason I hold compassion for him. Its deep in my bones and I can't let it go."

Another woman, who identified herself as "brandy99," wrote that she can see a difference between Bernardo the man and Bernardo the criminal. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE/WITH FILES FROM THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bride-to-be

'Paul's girl' believes he is innocent

In a report published on Thursday, the Quebec-owned QMI does not name the 30-year-old bride-to-be. It says that even her family doesn't believe the ceremony behind bars will ever take place.

According to QMI, the couple first met last fall after she wrote Bernardo, and the bride-to-be believes he is innocent even though he made videos of his victims in captivity.

"He has convinced her that he didn't do this (rapes or murders)," her father told QMI.

QMI says the bride-to-be has a tattoo on her ankle that says "Paul's girl," and the engagement has caused tensions within her family.

Concern

Farmers hit by flooding, crops under water

Water levels appear to be stabilizing in most of Manitoba and Saskatchewan after widespread flooding, but fear of massive damages is growing.

Saskatchewan Health officials say the hospital in Melville, about 145 kilometres northwest of Regina, will reopen today and patients are being moved back in.

A rising creek behind the facility led to a full-scale evacuation Tuesday of more than 150 acute-care patients and long-term residents.

While the flood is stabilizing in many areas, the Saskatchewan Water Security Agency warns peaks have not yet been reached on Crooked and Round Lakes in the Lower Qu'Appelle River watershed.

Agency spokesman Patrick Boyle says those lakes will pass record highs set in 1955.

Farmers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan say they are bearing the brunt of Prairie flooding because some producers could lose their crops and their homes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Police 'move forward' in case of missing trio

Calgary police say closed-circuit video and tips from the public are bringing them closer to understanding what happened to a missing five-year-old boy and his grandparents.

But homicide unit Staff-Sgt. Doug Andrus said investigators still don't have any suspects they can name.

"But ... we have information that's allowed us to move forward with this investigation," Andrus said at a news conference Thursday.

"Are we closer than yesterday? I would say we are."

Nathan O'Brien and Alvin and Kathy Liknes were reported missing Monday and police believe their disappearance is suspicious.

The boy had been at his grandparents' on a sleepover after the couple held an estate sale at their home on the weekend. Police have said there was evidence the three may have been forced from the home. An Amber Alert remained in effect. Andrus said officers have closed-circuit video from homes and business near the Liknes' house and it's helping with the investigation.

He said police are also getting information from the public, including the people who attended the estate sale.

Police had asked anyone who attended the sale and bought something to bring a photo of the item to a community centre Thursday and speak with investigators.

Andrus estimated as many as 300 people attended the sale.

He said between 20 and 30 had gone to the community centre as of Thursday afternoon.

"I would say it is less a mystery to us. I can't comment on the degree. Again, we are getting good information coming in and we are going through it and determining the relevance to the investigation," he said.

FOR YOUR HEALTH

ASK THE Denturist

How often should dentures be replaced?

Dentures should be replaced approximately every 5 years, says Hartley Zelcer of Zelcer Denture Clinic. Natural teeth can wear down and stain through time and so do your dentures. Tissue in your mouth goes through constant changes attributed to aging, weight loss, medications, stress and various other factors. Symptoms such as ringing in the ears, ear aches, headaches, jaw pain and dizzy spells may all be denture related. Dentures should enhance ones face by reducing and softening lines and in many cases can make one look years younger.

The Zelcers reputation has made them one of the most recognized and trusted clinics in the province.

U.S. drugstore chain Walgreens has agreed to pay US$180,000 to a diabetic cashier who was fired after eating a $1.39 bag of chips before paying for it during what she said was an attack of low blood sugar, federal officials said.

The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commis-

According to the suit, the 18-year Walgreens employee paid for the bag of chips the same day she ate them.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported that Walgreens apparently fired her for violating a company policy against eating food products before paying for them.

Guinness World Records. 62-year-old Galyon brothers also eyeing world's oldest conjoined twins record

Ohio brothers hoping to be recognized later this year as the world's oldest conjoined twins plan to celebrate Saturday as they hit a milestone they've been looking forward to for years.

Donnie and Ronnie Galyon of Beaver Creek will be 62 years, eight months and seven days old, and they'll have outlived Eng and Chang Bunker, the famous 19th century "Siamese Twins."

"They are talking about it constantly, day in and day out," their younger brother, Jim Galyon, told the Dayton Daily News as he planned a celebratory block party. "They've been marking their calendar off every day, counting down to the day."

What they really want, though, is recognition from Guinness World Records. That could happen in October, when they would turn 63 and pass the record held by conjoined twins from Italy.

The brothers, who are joined at the abdomen, live with Jim and his wife in Beaver Creek. The couple

Plane strikes Cleveland airport's passenger bridge

A Frontier Airlines plane approaching the terminal at Cleveland's main airport struck the bridge that passengers use to board and exit aircraft. No injuries have been reported.

A spokeswoman for Cleveland Hopkins International Airport says the accident occurred around 1 a.m. Thursday as the flight from Denver approached the terminal. Passengers on the A319 Airbus disembarked using a stairway at the back of the plane.

The spokeswoman says she doesn't know how many people were on the flight. She says an A319 can carry 124 passengers.

She says the plane had slight damage, but didn't know how much damage the jet bridge sustained.

Maritimes likely to see harsh weather as hurricane dies down

From the U.S. to Canada. Arthur has prompted many evacuations along the North Carolina coast

A storm headed towards the Maritimes is expected to lose its hurricane strength when it arrives in the region Saturday, but still carry potent winds and heavy rains.

Meteorologist Bob Robichaud of the Canadian Hurricane Centre said Thursday he expects Arthur, the first named storm of the Atlantic season, to be a strong post-tropical storm with sustained winds of 65 kilometres an hour or more.

It was classified as hurricane earlier Thursday in the United States, where it was likely to reach Category 2 status. That means a minimum wind speed of 154 km/h, while a Category 1 storm is 119 km/h.

But Robichaud said that even with the expected weakening of the system as it moves north, it could pack strong winds when it arrives late Friday or early Saturday morning.

Robichaud expects Nova Scotia will experience the heaviest winds while New Brunswick could see the most rainfall, adding that it's still too early to determine where Arthur could make landfall.

Forecasters are watching to see how the storm interacts with a trough of low pressure that could indicate how much rain it will bring, but say up to 100 millimetres could fall in parts of New Brunswick.

If Arthur makes landfall in the U.S. on Friday, it would be the first hurricane to do so on July 4, according to National Hurricane Center research that goes back to the 1850s.

Evacuations

Arthur threatened to give North Carolina a glancing blow on Friday, prompting thousands of vacationers and residents celebrating Independence Day to leave parts of the Outer Banks.

- On Ocracoke Island, accessible only by ferry, a voluntary evacuation was underway. A mandatory evacuation for nearby Hatteras Island visitors began Thursday morning.
- Those who fail to evacuate ahead of Arthur's expected arrival should prepare for possibly being stuck several days without food, water or power, said forecaster Stacy Stewart of the National Hurricane Center.

Engaging the mind.

College students left cellphones and other distractions behind and spent six to 15 minutes alone in a room, with only their thoughts

Wouldn't you love to escape this busy world and just spend some time alone with your thoughts? Maybe not, says a study of volunteers who actually tried it.

Some even started giving themselves electric shocks as the minutes ticked by.

"I think many of them were trying to shock themselves out of boredom," said psychologist Timothy Wilson of the University of Virginia. "It's just a sign of how difficult (being alone with one's thoughts) can be for people.... This isn't something that most people find really enjoyable."

At least, that's the case for people not trained in techniques such as meditation, Wilson and co-authors say in a paper released Thursday by the journal Science.

In a series of experiments, college students left their cellphones and other distractions behind and spent six to 15 minutes alone in a sparsely furnished room on campus. They were told to entertain themselves just with their thoughts, or imagine doing one of three pleasant activities like hiking.

The experience was not exactly heaven. On a nine-point scale of enjoyment, their average rating was about in the middle. And about half the participants gave it a rating at the half-way mark or below.

In nonscientific terms, the overall verdict was: Eh.

Doing it at home proved no more enjoyable. When the researchers had 61 people from the community try it at home, about half admitted to cheating by doing things like checking their cellphones, writing or doodling.

Wilson was surprised by the overall results. When the experimenters began, "it seemed that it shouldn't be that hard for people to use (their brains) to entertain themselves," he said.

Maybe the problem is that while pleasant thoughts pop up naturally while we're doing

I think, therefore I am ... bored?

"The mind is built to engage in the world and when you give it nothing to engage it, it's hard to keep one train of thought going for very long."

Timothy Wilson, psychologist at the University of Virginia, and co-author of the study

Electric shocks

'Surprising' results

The most startling experiment involved the electric shock. Students first shocked themselves in the ankle and rated how unpleasant that was.

They were asked to imagine being given $5 and to specify how much they would pay to avoid another shock, or to receive one.

Then they were told that if they wanted to, they could shock themselves again during their time alone, which ran 15 minutes.

Of the 55 participants, 42 said they would pay to avoid feeling the shock again. But once they were left alone, even some of these volunteers chose to shock themselves anyway; 12 of 18 men and six of 24 women.

Jonathan Schooler, a psychologist at the University of California, Santa Barbara, who didn't participate in the work, said he found the results "surprising and in some ways a disappointing statement about human nature."

Most people have interesting things to think about, "so I don't understand why they find themselves such bad company," Schooler said.

"This is innovative new research," Schooler said.

Shooters. Colorado eatery encourages waitresses and customers alike to openly carry loaded guns

A western Colorado restaurant doesn't just allow its customers to openly carry guns — its waitresses carry loaded weapons right on their hips.

Colorado is not among those states where openly carrying guns anywhere in public is legal but, at Shooters Grill in the river town of Rifle, open display of firearms is encouraged. The Glenwood Springs Post-Independent reports.

A sign on the front door reads, "Guns are welcome on premises. Please keep all weapons holstered, unless the need arises. In such cases, judicious marksmanship is appreciated."

Shooters owner Lauren Boebert said she is simply allowing customers and employees to exercise their constitutional right to bear arms.

Jessie Spaulding, a waitress at the Shooters Grill in Rifle, Colo., brings food to a table.

"We encourage it, and the customers love that they can come here and express their rights," Boebert said.

She chose the restaurant name last year as a nod to its gun policy.

"I consulted with my Christian friends and everyone said 'Shooters' sounded like a bar or a strip joint," Boebert said with a laugh.

"But I thought, this is Rifle — it was founded around guns and the Old West. We called it Shooters and started throwing guns and Jesus all over the place."

Colorado gun-control supporters told the newspaper they favour concealed carry over open carry because of the permitting requirements.

"We stand behind the Second Amendment, but we don't encourage people to carry guns as a public display in places like stores or restaurants," said Jennifer Hope, the Colorado chapter leader for the national Moms Demand Action for Gun Sense in America. The group was founded in 2012 after the Sandy Hook elementary school shooting in Connecticut.

The issue has made headlines after gun rights activists carrying loaded rifles gathered in Target stores in Texas, Alabama and North Carolina to demonstrate their support of "open carry" laws.

On Wednesday, Target asked its customers "respectfully" to not bring firearms into stores, even where allowed by law.

Protesters turn back immigrants

An overflow crowd in a California community, where protesters turned back busloads of immigrants, gave a harsh reception to Homeland Security officials behind the decision to bring them to their city in the first place.

Local politicians calling for secure borders proved far more popular with the crowd Wednesday night in Murrieta.

"Send them back! Send them back!" the crowd chanted at a public meeting, shouting down Chief Border Patrol Agent Paul Beeson after he took responsibility for transferring the Central American children and families to California from Texas, where the numbers are too much for facilities to handle.

On Tuesday, the buses were rerouted an hour south to San Diego, after they were met with flag-waving protesters in Murrieta.

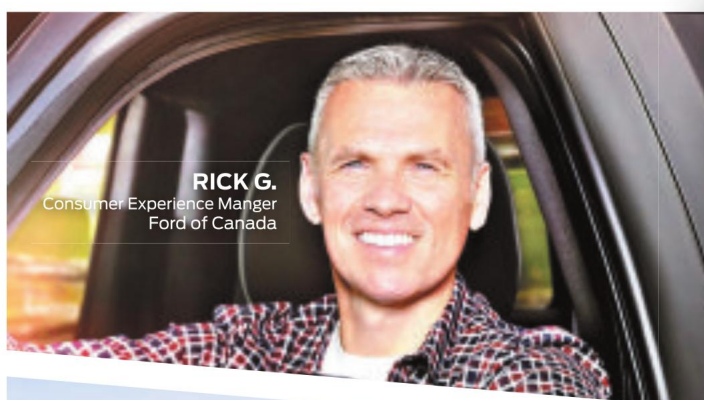

The crowd, gathered at a high school auditorium Wednesday night, groaned when Beeson said four of the immigrants had to be hospitalized, two with scabies and two with fevers.

And Beeson conceded that he did not know where Tuesday's immigrants will end up — nor several more waves slated to arrive from Texas in coming days.

Rescuers work to enter a gold mine where miners are trapped after a landslide in Honduras on Thursday. FERNANDO ANTONIO/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rescuers try to save 11 trapped gold miners

Honduras. More than 300 volunteers and firefighters at cave-in ground and none of them has been rescued," Alvarado said.

More than 300 Red Cross volunteers, firefighters and people who live near the mine in the town of El Corpus were digging by hand in an effort to reach the miners.

Fire department spokesman Oscar Triminio said heavy machinery was not being used because the mine "is unstable and could further collapse."

The miners were trapped about 80 metres into the mine, Triminio said.

The mine partially collapsed shortly after 22 miners entered to search for gold on Wednesday, but half were able to get out on their own, he said.

Mayor Luis Rueda said there are more than 50 mines in the area, some of them as much as 200 metres underground.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An official withdrew his report that eight miners had been rescued from a small, wildcat gold mine in southern Honduras, saying late Thursday that all 11 men were still trapped following a cave-in the previous day.

Rescue workers using picks and shovels cleared away rubble by hand trying to reach the miners.

Emergencies Commission director Moises Alvarado had said earlier Thursday that eight of the miners had been rescued and been taken to hospital. He later said he was given incorrect information by a firefighter at the site.

Israel gathering military forces on Gaza border

Hamas. Increased wave of rocket fire out of Gaza has further stoked tensions since three Israeli teens were found dead last week

The Israeli military rushed additional forces to its southern border with the Gaza Strip on Thursday, vowing to halt a growing wave of rocket fire from the Palestinian territory. Meanwhile, new clashes erupted in east Jerusalem in response to the death of an Arab boy who Palestinians say was killed by Israeli extremists.

a defence measure. But persistent rocket fire raised the prospects of a tough Israeli response, with the military saying more than 40 rockets or mortar shells were fired from Hamas-controlled Gaza on Thursday.

Tensions have been high since three Israeli teenagers were abducted in the West Bank on June 12, sparking a massive manhunt that ended with the discovery of their bodies early this week. Israel has blamed Hamas for the abductions and launched a crackdown on the Islamic militant group in the West Bank, drawing rocket attacks out of Gaza and Israeli airstrikes in a near-daily cycle of retaliation.

The situation deteriorated further on Wednesday after the burned body of a Palestinian youth, whose identity was confirmed Thursday as Mohammed Abu Khdeir, was found in a forest after he was seized near his home in east Jerusalem. The Palestinians accused Israeli extremists of killing the teen in a revenge attack over the deaths of the Israeli youths.

Oscar Pistorius is a "paradox" whose past triumphs as a sprinter crossing the finish line with raised arms contrasted sharply with the daily, severe limitations that he endured because of his disability, a physician testified Thursday at the

Wayne Derman, a professor of sport and exercise medicine at the University of Cape Town, said in court that the contrast likely contributed to stress and anxiety for Pistorius, who fatally shot girlfriend Reeva

Anniversary of Morsi's ouster marked with violence, arrests

Crackdown on Islamists. Nearly 200 people arrested a year after Egypt's ex-president toppled by the military

A series of demonstrations and small bombings marked the anniversary on Thursday of the ouster of Egypt's President Mohammed Morsi, and authorities responded by arresting nearly 200 people as part of their crackdown against Islamists.

A bomb went off accidentally inside an apartment outside Cairo, killing two suspected militants who were handling the explosives, the Interior Ministry said, adding that the men were in the apartment with two friends who fled after the blast in the Islamist stronghold of Kirdasah.

A security official said one Morsi supporter was killed during clashes between protesters and security forces in Cairo's twin city Giza. Late Thursday, a homemade bomb went off on a train in Egypt's second city, Alexandria, injuring five passengers, another official said.

A policeman was killed following violent clashes with protesters in Helwan, a district south of Cairo, an official said.

Morsi's supporters had called for mass protests a year after he was toppled by the military, but the number of demonstrators during the day was mostly in the hundreds — evidence of the reluctance by Islamists to take on the security forces after a months-long crackdown that has killed hundreds and jailed at least 22,000.

Thursday's demonstrations took place in Cairo, Alexandria, Assiut, the oasis province of Fayoum southwest of the capital and several other provinces.

Protests continued after nightfall, with skirmishes reported in the city of Suez, the southern city of Aswan and on the outskirts of Cairo.

Anonymity tool draws NSA's attention: Report

Ex-NSA employee William Binney is questioned by a German parliamentary committee on Thursday. MICHAEL SOHN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

German media reported Thursday that users and supporters of a popular online anonymity tool are among those automatically singled out for special attention by U.S. security services.

The report by public broadcasters WDR and NDR says the code from the National Security Agency's XKeyscore software reveals the NSA's interest in anyone who uses a program called Tor that can obscure a person's digital trail.

The code for the software, which was created to filter through vast amounts of data to find information of interest to U.S. intelligence, also monitors a handful of key computers that act as phonebooks for the Tor network, the report said.

The report came on the day German lawmakers began hearing expert testimony for a probe into the activities of foreign intelligence agencies in Germany.

The inquiry was sparked by reports based on documents leaked by former NSA contractor Edward Snowden, which showed that German citizens, including Chancellor Angela Merkel, were targeted by U.S. intelligence.

Former U.S. intelligence official William Binney told the lawmakers that Thursday's report was plausible.

Binney, who left the NSA in 2001 alleging surveillance overreach after the 9-11 terror attacks, said factors that put people into "zones of suspicion" include visiting certain websites regularly.

'Zones of suspicion'

A report published by two public broadcasters says that users of Tor, a program that can help obscure a person's digital trail, are of interest to U.S. intelligence.

Mormons believe in social media

The Mormon church is expanding a program that gives missionaries iPad minis and broadens their proselytizing to social media.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints said in a news release this week that a test program

Church leaders expect to have the specially configured mobile devices in the hands of more than 32,000 missionaries by early 2015. Most missionaries will cover the cost of the $400 device.

Anything is Possible

This is the story of a sheep who, from the top of her hill, watched the birds fly and thought to herself: "How lucky they are! They can choose how they look at things: from far away, from up close, or from somewhere in between."

One day, the sheep had an idea and ran to see the wolf. "I have to talk to you!" she shouted. He stopped what he was doing and listened. "Let's build a flying machine!"

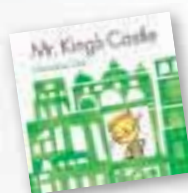

"Do you think it's that simple?! You spend too much time watching the birds in the sky," said the wolf, shaking his head. But eventually the sheep's dream got the better of the wolf's doubts, and they started working on the machine together.

They gathered fabric and rods and followed the plans they had designed. When they were ready, they started the machine and took off into the sky. But the fabric wasn't strong enough. It soon ripped and they tumbled to the ground. "Let's try again," said the sheep, and she blew up some balloons.

"Hold tight!" she shouted. This time, as soon as they got the machine off the ground, birds popped the balloons. "Oh dear!" shouted the wolf. "This is never going to work!" But they decided to try one more time. The sheep had a new idea. She got the wolf to cut out a dragon's tail, while she cut out a head. This time, it worked. They were flying! And, steadily and surely, they continued to fly.

Someone once wrote that only those who dream learn to fly. "See?" said the sheep. "What did I tell you?" "Anything is possible," admitted the wolf. The sky before them was wide open.

Mr. King lives on top of a BIG hill. He wants to build himself a BIG castle. Mr. King likes BIG things. CHOP! CHOP! CHOP! Mr. King starts chopping off blocks to build his castle. He is too busy to notice the BIG holes he is leaving behind.

CHOP! CHOP! CHOP! Mr. King's friends come running. "What is that NOISE?" "What are these HOLES?" "What are these BLOCKS?"

Mr. King is too busy to hear them. Block by block, bit by bit, his castle is getting BIGGER and BIGGER.

Mr. King chops until there is nothing left to chop and builds until there is nothing left to build with. Then he stops and proudly looks out the window. "Hmm...there isn't much of a view," says Mr. King.

Down below, his friends are grumbling. "What happened to the hill?" ask Bert and Tex. "What happened to my favorite napping spot?" asks Harriet. "Where are the flowers?" wonders Old Jim Elk. "What happened to the grass I eat?" asks P.J. "And where is our secret stash of nuts?!" cry Skit and Skat. One by one, they gather under the castle window. Everyone is staring at Mr. King, and suddenly he feels very small.

"Uh-oh. That was a BIG mistake," he says after a while. "Maybe I should put everything back."

"YAY!!" All his friends jump up to help. Together they start taking down the BIG castle, block by block, bit by bit. And block by block, bit by bit, they put everything back just like it was before.

...Well, ALMOST like it was before. "There is one piece left," says Mr. King. "But I don't see where it fits. What shall we do with it?"

After whispering to the others, Tex says: "Close your eyes. We have an idea." When Mr. King opens his eyes, his friends sing out "SURPRISE!!" Tonight, in his small castle, Mr. King is going to have a BIG party!

THE MOST MAGNIFICENT THING

AUTHOR/ILLUSTRATOR: Ashley Spires

This is a regular girl and her best friend in the whole wide world. They do all kinds of things together. They race. They eat. They explore. They relax. She makes things. He unmakes things.

One day, the girl has a wonderful idea. She is going to make the most MAGNIFICENT thing!

She knows just how it will look. She knows just how it will work. All she has to do is make it, and she makes things all the time. Easy-peasy!

First, she hires an assistant. Next, they gather their supplies. They set up somewhere out of the way and get to work.

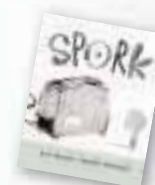

The girl tinkers and hammers and measures...while her assistant pounces and growls and chews. When she is finished, she steps back to admire her work. She walks around one side. Her assistant examines the other side... It doesn't look right. Her assistant picks it up and gives it a shake. It doesn't feel right, either.

They are shocked to discover that the thing isn't magnificent. Or good. It isn't even kind-of-sort-of okay. It is all WRONG. The girl tosses it aside and gives it another go. She smooths and wrenches and fiddles. Her assistant circles and tugs and wags.

When she is finished, she stands up and takes a long look at it. Her assistant gives it a nudge with his paw. The thing is still wrong. She decides to try again.

SPORK

AUTHOR: Kyo Maclear
ILLUSTRATOR: Isabelle Arsenault
PUBLISHED BY: Kids Can Press

Spork was neither spoon nor fork...
...but a bit of both.

He had a mum and a dad...
... who both thought he was perfect just the way he was.

But Spork stuck out. In his kitchen, forks were forks and spoons were spoons. Cutlery customs were followed closely. Mixing was uncommon. Naturally, there were rule breakers: knives who loved chopsticks, tongs who married forks. But such families were unusual.

One day, after the billionth time he was asked "What are you, anyway?" and the zillionth time he was passed over when the table was being set...

...Spork sighed and thought, "It must be easier to be a single thing." And he decided he'd try to pick just one thing to be.

He thought he should start by fixing his head. He put on a bowler hat to look more spoonish. But the forks thought he was too round.

Then he made a paper crown to look more forkish. But the spoons thought he was too pointy. Spork wondered if there were other lonely creatures out there with no matching kind, who never got chosen to be at the table.

At dinnertime, he watched from the drawer while the spoons played pea hockey and skillfully balanced boiled eggs. He sat off to the side while the forks raked fancy patterns in the mashed potatoes and twirled noodles around in complicated circles like rhythmic gymnasts. And at the end of this and every other meal, Spork looked on while the others enjoyed a super-bubbly bath in the sink.

Until one morning, a messy thing arrived.

Indiegogo's mobile app comes to Canada first

Finally! For once, our country gets something before the rest of the world. Okay, so it's an app for a crowdfunding platform ... We'll take it Indiegogo, which bills itself as the world's largest crowdfunding platform, is looking to grow with a move into mobile apps — starting in Canada.

The San Francisco-based company announced Thursday that Canadians are getting early access to its first mobile app, which is now available on Apple's App Store. The app will be rolling out to other countries in a couple of months, said Indiegogo CEO Slava Rubin.

"Canada is a really important country for us. In terms of volume, it's the second-largest country for us in the world ... and we send money to 70 to 100 countries a week," said Rubin, who added that an app for Google Android devices is expected before year's end.

"The Canadian users have been great with their feedback and we feel like it's a great opportunity."

Entrepreneurs — or anyone with an idea — can post a fundraising drive on Indiegogo and seek supporters to help pay for their plan. Supporters are typically offered rewards in exchange for donating to help to get the idea off the ground.

Rubin said mobile usage on Indiegogo has grown dramatically in recent years and the new app is designed to help users support or launch campaigns on the go.

"We see the mobile app as an extension of where we're moving forward with our innovation," he said.

"I would say if we were starting Indiegogo from scratch today and there was nothing else existing, there's a good chance we would go mobile-only. Adding apps is just an extension of where the market and customers are taking us."

Trout fishing in Gifu prefecture

Ukai is a traditional method of catching small Japanese trout by manipulating seabirds called cormorants in the Nagaragawa River. It's been taking place every year in Japan since the 700s.

Master trainers of cormorants dressed in ancient costume freely manipulate 10 to 12 wild sea cormorants to skilfully catch small trout.

This fishing is performed every night between May 11 and Oct. 15 except during a full moon or in heavy rain.

The only illuminations are the pine torches lit on the boats.

Master trainers of cormorants belong to the Imperial Household Agency, and an important duty of theirs is to make offerings of small trout to the Emperor.

It is prescribed that in each generation the eldest son succeeds his father, and these men live with cormorants in order to train them every day.

How it all goes down

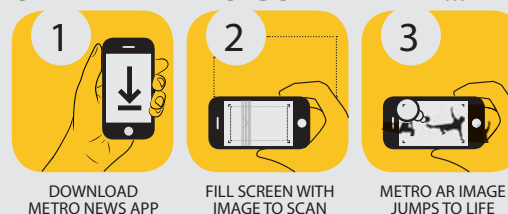

Beginning at dusk, each fisherman leads about a dozen cormorants on leashes who swim alongside the boat and dive under the water to catch fish by swallowing them whole.

- The fish are kept in a special pouch in the cormorant's throat to be retrieved later.
- The fish are prevented from being swallowed by a snare around the neck of the bird.

Rob Cantor here has a pretty solid knack for celebrity impressions, especially female performers. And in places where he doesn't get the voice exactly down, he nails the mannerisms.

But this isn't your standard "Said Number Of Celebrity Impressions In Three Minutes" clip. Instead, Mr. Cantor is taking his talents to YouTube to promote his new album by throwing his impressions at an original song.

Seriously, though. The female impressions are absurdly close. (robcantor/YouTube)

Enjoy the Apes of summer

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Hot weather, cool movies. Sci-fi adventure, biopics, mature romantic comedy and sex are all on moviegoers' menu this summer

Richard: Mark, I was a huge Planet of the Apes fan as a kid. Loved the rubber masks, the twisty endings and the "YOU MANIACS! YOU BLEW IT UP!" scene still blows my mind.

Saw them over and over, and even enjoyed the bad ones like Conquest of the Planet of the Apes.

Today, as an adult, I have a full-sized Cornelius bust with faux chimpanzee hair in my office. So, given my obsession with simian cinema, my inner 14-year-old goes a bit ape every time I see the Dawn of the Planet of the Apes trailer. What's got you excited this summer?

Mark: I'm a Planet of the Apes fan, too, Richard. The idea of animals acting like humans is a welcome change from my life in show business, where humans act like animals.

I'm really looking forward to Lucy, starring Scarlett Johansson in a Luc Besson revenge/action flick.

This is Scarlett's moment, and this is going to be the movie to make her a megastar. The trailer made me spill my popcorn!

RC: Johansson is doing interesting work these days, splitting her time between rock 'em, sock 'em movies like Captain America: The Winter Soldier and smaller movies like Chef and Under the Skin.

Michael Fassbender has a similar career arc. We last saw him in X-Men: Days of Future Past. Next up he's in Frank, a strange indie based on the life of Frank Sidebottom, a real-life English musician who wore a giant papier-mâché head complete with painted-on eyes, ruby red lips and slicked-back hair.

I love Fassbender for still taking chances on movies like this when he could easily cash big Hollywood paycheques time after time.

MB: Sounds like one strange biopic, Richard! A more commercial variant I'm looking forward to is Get On Up, the James Brown story starring Chadwick Boseman. The Godfather of Soul never wore a papier-mâché head, but he was big on ermine capes and tantrums, so this should be a lot of fun. And what a soundtrack it will be!

For life lessons and laughs, there's And So It Goes, a mature rom-com starring Michael Douglas and Diane Keaton. Bring your CARP card for discounts on soft-chew treats from the concession stand.

RC: I don't have a CARP card yet. I do like soft chew candies, however.

As far as movies go, I'm curious about Guardians of the Galaxy. So many of the summer's blockbusters have been oh-so-serious affairs

Flick picks

When the Reel Guys aren't at the movies, one of their favourite things to do is talk about going to the movies.

- This week Richard and Mark have a look at talking apes, a vengeful Scarlett Johansson, and a singer with a papier-mâché head and a talking raccoon.
- So throw some popcorn on the BBQ, crank up the air conditioning and enjoy the Reel Guys' most anticipated films of the summer season.

that I think this one promises some good laughs and action.

MB: The cast suggests it might be more than your typical sci-fi adventure. But it's Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz in Sex Tape that gets me hot. Big laughs, lots of action, at least of the horizontal variety.

To Schepisi, with love and chemistry

Words and Pictures.

Clive Owen and Juliette Binoche made this director's work easy with their breezy on-screen pairing

CHRIS
scene@metronews.ca

In director Fred Schepisi's new romantic comedy Words and Pictures, there's a moving scene in which actor Clive Owen, playing an alcoholic English professor, slurringly confronts his weary adult son on the street, tearfully revealing a transgression and begging for forgiveness.

It's the moment in the otherwise lighthearted romp in which you realize that the picture has a profound ache in its heart.

It's also the moment when you are reminded about how good an actor Owen can be.

"Clive is a really passionate actor who thinks he's been given a great chance in life," the veteran filmmaker says of the British thespian, star of such diverse films as Croupier and Sin City.

"He brings a real preparation to everything he does, an intense level of interest in creating a role. Which is, of course, fantastic for me because he was also open to whatever I thought could improve. He's a magnificent performer."

Owen is the male half of the frothy, sophisticated movie, in which his cocksure yet troubled writer/professor bumps up against Juliette Binoche's elegant, tough and yet physically damaged painter/art teacher in a battle of wits that eventually leads to love.

Words and Pictures is the 18th film directed by Aussie-born Schepisi who has proved time and time again — in films ranging from The Russia House to Six Degrees of Separation — that he is nothing if not an actor's director.

"Both Clive and Juliette

"When I got them together to meet for the first time, you just saw it. They had "it." They liked each other, they were very similar and made each other laugh a lot so this time, really, my job was already half done before we

It's that organic quality which gives the film its edge, a natural hook to a film that may have, under a different director and with a different cast, easily fallen into trite cliché.

"Everything just worked," notes Schepisi.

"Even when Juliette's character paints, that's actually her doing it.

"That's her work on display. She fully understood the character and added a dimension to the role that no other actor could. It was amazing. Making the film was a journey and it was one I really, truly enjoyed."

Canadian director Bruce LaBruce says his new film is shocking for how mainstream it is. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Provocative director gets soft in latest film

Gerontophilia.

Bruce LaBruce insists it's still fetish first, despite his tale of intergenerational sex having a notable tint of sweetness

Toronto filmmaker, underground pornographer and all-around boundary-baiting provocateur Bruce LaBruce has accomplished something downright outrageous with his latest picture, Gerontophilia: he made something accessible, tender and — gasp — sort of mainstream.

In the 50-year-old's estimation, it's perhaps the most shocking move he could have made.

"I was expecting a certain amount of backlash (or blowback)," the director said over coffee at last September's Toronto International Film Festival. "I've made seven feature films pretty much all with explicit content, and suddenly to change gears and make something a little more accessible, possibly a little more mainstream — certainly done more within an industry context, government financing, my first union crew, etc."

"I would expect some raised eyebrows," he continued. "I'm saying it's shocking sometimes not to be shocking. The scandal is that there is no scandal."

Still, fans of LaBruce's more nakedly daring work will still find layers of subtext to chew on in what otherwise seems his first pleasant trifle.

Gerontophilia, which opens Friday in Toronto, centres on Lake (newcomer Pier-Gabriel Lajoie), an 18-year-old who takes a job in a nursing home. There, he develops feelings for an 81-year-old resident of the facility (portrayed by the estimable Walter Borden), and an unlikely romance blossoms.

Although there's a sweetness to the relationship and LaBruce's film in general, he's characteristically quick to undercut it. He wanted the film to be about a fetish — hence the title — and not a story of love overcoming a seemingly insurmountable difference.

In other words, Lake doesn't fall for Mr. Peabody in spite of their chasmic age disparity, but precisely because of it.

"I very consciously made him not gay-identified — he has a girlfriend," LaBruce said of the younger character. "I also consciously start out with his fetish first. That's why the film is about gerontophilia — he does have several encounters with old men where he gets excited. He doesn't quite understand why."

The film is LaBruce's first to be deemed acceptable for audiences as young as 14 in Canada.

Theft. Fans left fuming after famed Fault in Our Stars bench goes missing

Fans of The Fault in Our Stars discovered that a canal-side bench in Amsterdam that's the site of a key scene in the romantic drama had gone missing as they traced a tour of movie-centric moments around the Dutch capital.

The disappearance went undetected by city authorities as the bench was swiftly replaced by a flowerpot, filling up the gap in street furniture.

"It's a bit embarrassing, because we do keep good track of them, but it's gone all right," city spokesman Stephan van der Hoek told The Hollywood Reporter. "Keep your eyes on eBay," he remarked, with an eye on the seat's possible eventual destination.

The city was tipped off after film fans started making inquiries as to the missing bench's whereabouts.

Released in June, Josh Boone's adaptation of the John Green young adult novel stars Shailene Woodley and Ansel Elgort as the teens who meet at a cancer patients' support group in the U.S. The pair then visits Amsterdam to track down an elusive author.

As well as sitting on the canal-side bench, the two share a kiss in the attic of the Anne Frank House museum, though real tours of the attraction don't ascend into the loft space.

And while the bench was likely removed with intent, the flowerpot may have been an act of serendipity rather than deliberate decoy, Der Hoek said: Neighbours often club together to improve their own environs.

Gosling and McAdams weren't so cuddly on the set of The Notebook

To mark the 10th anniversary of The Notebook, surely it's appropriate to wax sentimental over the now-iconic love story, or reminisce about the subsequent off-screen romance between co-stars Ryan Gosling and Rachel McAdams.

Or, if you're Notebook director Nick Cassavetes, maybe it's time to tell the world just how much the co-stars disliked each other during filming.

In an interview with VH1, Cassavetes reveals that at one point, their bickering interrupted filming. "Maybe I'm not supposed to tell this story, but they were really not getting along one day on set. Really not. And Ryan came to me, and there's 150 people standing in this big scene, and he says, 'Nick come here.' And he's doing a scene with Rachel and he says, 'Would you take her out of here and bring in another actress to read off camera with me?' I said, 'What?' He says, 'I can't. I can't do it with her. I'm just not getting anything from this.'

How did Cassavetes deal with that one? Apparently, he arranged for the stars to, er, talk it out. "We went into a room with a producer; they started screaming and yelling at each other. I walked out. At that point I was smoking cigarettes. I smoked a cigarette and everybody came out like, 'All right, let's do this.' And it got better after that, you know? They had it out ... I think Ryan respected her for standing up for her character and Rachel was happy to get that out in the open. The rest of the film wasn't smooth sailing, but it was smoother sailing." METRO

Burt Reynolds to bare even more in new memoir

G.P. Putnam's Sons has announced that Burt Reynolds' memoir, But Enough About Me, is set to be released in fall 2015.

The 78-year-old Reynolds promises in a statement to "set the record straight" on everything from his love affairs with Sally Field and Loni Anderson to his Cosmopolitan centrefold from 1972. His films include Deliverance, Boogie Nights and Smokey and the Bandit. Reynolds' book is expected to cover his friendships with Clint Eastwood, Frank Sinatra and Johnny Carson, among others, as well. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adam Levine takes on his first movie role pro bono

MELINDA TAUB
Metro in New York City

Adam Levine is an attractive person. In fact, being attractive may be the thing he's best at, including being the rock star frontman for Maroon 5. So he should be totally fine monetizing that attractiveness on the silver screen, right?

Not so fast. Levine says he wants to take things slow as he learns his cinematic craft — that's why he took on his role in Begin Again, opposite Keira Knightley, as more or less an unpaid intern.

"I did this movie for no money. I'm very lucky that I'm in that position," he told USA Today. "I want to have good experiences. I don't want to do a bunch of (expletive) that I hate. I want to treat (acting) completely differently because I have the very fortunate luxury of not having to think of this in terms of money."

Between Maroon 5 and The Voice, Levine will probably never have to think of anything in terms of money again, up to and including trips to space, but he is a man of simpler pleasures: His favourite thing about being a rock star is apparently restaurants. Adam Levine loves restaurants. "I can get a reservation at any restaurant in town at any town," he says in awe. "And that's the greatest thing about being me. Because I love to eat at many different restaurants."

So putting this all together, I'm pretty sure Adam Levine will star in my web series if I take him to some restaurants. I've gotta go make some calls.

Kim Kardashian and Kanye West

Kim and Kanye may take Manhattan (for a cool $17M)

Newly married couple Kimye are reportedly apartment hunting in New York City, according to People. West already has an apartment in Soho, but apparently it isn't big enough for him, Kardashian and baby North West. Not to mention the ever-present Keeping Up With The Kardashians camera crew.

Kardashian and her mother Kris reportedly looked at an apartment in Greenwich Village, listed for $17.25 million US. According to the New York Post, the apartment boasts six bedrooms, seven bathrooms, private parking and a garden. The mom and daughter duo also reportedly looked at another apartment, on the penthouse floor, with a pool. Decisions, decisions. METRO

Canadian cutie Jay Baruchel lands comedy series on FXX

Jay Baruchel is headed back to the small screen in a comedy about a hopeless romantic navigating the modern dating world. FXX has reportedly ordered 10 episodes of Man Seeking Woman, which will begin airing in 2015.

According to Variety, the series is based on The Last Girlfriend on Earth, a book of short stories by Saturday Night Live writer Simon Rich.

Rich wrote the pilot with Jonathan Krisel and will executive-produce alongside heavyweights Lorne Michaels and Andrew Singer.

Montreal-based Baruchel stars as Josh Greenberg, a "naive romantic on a desperate quest for love."

For the love of salmon

My comments last week that I was determined to master the art of barbecuing salmon prompted some of you to send me everything from your own step-by-step instructions to links to YouTube vids.

I took your advice and, while I'm still no Iron Chef, things turned out just fine. Well, eatable at least.

There's a lot to love about salmon. Not only does it taste fantastic, its adaptability with wine continues to chip away at that old wives' tale that claims only whites go with fish. While your favourite glass of lightly-oaked chardonnay or off-dry riesling would make a good match, my palate prefers red.

With its typically round, plump berry flavours, pinot noir is the grape that's the yin to salmon's yang. Originally from France's Burgundy region, it's now grown worldwide with fantastic versions coming out of South America.

Cono Sur's 2013 Bicycleta Pinot Noir ($10.95 - $12.99) from Chile is one for the budget conscious. Soft and juicy with good varietal personality, it goes swimmingly with meatier fish.

Memphis-Style Baby Back Ribs. Our neighbours to the south are celebrating their independence, and you can join in vicariously with this barbecue staple

1. Prepare a grill for medium-low (about 325 F) indirect cooking. In a charcoal grill, this means banking the hot coals to one side of the grill and cooking the ribs on the cooler side. In a gas grill, this means heating the grill with all burners on, but turning off the burners on one side just before putting the food on that side.

2. Remove silver skin from the backs of the ribs, if desired.

3. Place the soaked wood chips directly on the hot charcoals, or in smoking box if using a gas grill (place the box in the grill according to manufacturer directions). Cover the grill.

4. Rub the cut lemons all over the fronts and backs of the ribs, squeezing to release as much juice as possible. Set aside for 5 minutes, then sprinkle the ribs liberally with the barbecue rub. Let sit for 15 minutes.

5. Place the ribs, bone side down, in the centre of the cooking grate over the cooler side of the grill. Cover the grill and cook 1 1/2 to 2 hours, or until the meat is tender and has pulled back from the ends of the bones. Do not open the grill cover for at least the first 30 minutes. After that, if the ribs start to burn at the edges, stack them on top of one another in the very centre of the grill and lower your heat slightly.

6. Twenty minutes before serving, un-stack the ribs if necessary, then brush with barbecue sauce. Remove the ribs from the grill and let rest 10 minutes before cutting into individual or 2- to 3-rib portions.

7. If desired, additional barbecue sauce can be warmed and served alongside the ribs.

Classic Barbecue Rub

1. In bowl, combine all ingredients. Mix well. For a smoother rub, process the ingredients in a spice grinder until well combined and finely ground. The rub can be stored in an airtight container for up to 6 months.

FOOD, MUSIC AND SOME VITAMIN D

The Terrace at cityplace is the perfect summer patio

Summer is starting to heat up and that means it's time to take your lunch breaks outside of the office — and there's no better venue than The Terrace at cityplace. You can join your friends every Thursday throughout July and August for lunch on The Terrace where local Winnipeg bands will entertain you while you dine.

Beginning July 10 at 12 p.m., enjoy a delicious meal from one of the many food court merchants and restaurants while Winnipeg music staple, Moses Mayes, moves you with their unique fusion of funk, jazz, house and pop. The Terrace is located at the back of the food court on the second floor, just steps away from hot and ready to order lunch menu items.

From sushi to Greek, Japanese to Thai — enjoy flavours as varied as the music genres scheduled to play. Whether you're having gyros while listening to the siren voice of Alexa Dirks of The New Lightweights or chowing down on Boston Pizza while jamming to the horn-heavy ensemble, The Dirty Catfish Brass Band — there's something for everyone to enjoy.

At cityplace, you will find your favourite comfort foods — homemade pizza from Mrs. Vanelli's, sandwiches from Subway and burgers from A&W or choose from a number of meals that are a little more unconventional than your traditional fast foods: fish pakoras from Samosa Hut, Pad Thai from Bodegoes, sesame chicken from Manchu Wok. Regardless of your choice in type of cuisine, The Terrace will serve up tasteful, enjoyable tunes for the duration of your lunch break.

Take advantage of the beautiful summer ahead of you by grabbing some lunch and catching some vitamin D while enjoying local talent.

See you in the sunshine on The Terrace at cityplace.

Hughes to GSP: Stay out of UFC

Former UFC welterweight champion Matt Hughes says Georges St-Pierre should retire for good.

St-Pierre has been on hiatus since vacating his 170-pound title following a controversial win over Johny (Bigg Rigg) Hendricks at UFC 167 last November. He cited unspecified personal matters, saying he needed time away from the sport.

Hughes, who lost the UFC title to St-Pierre at UFC 65 in November 2006, says now may be the time for St-Pierre to finish on a winning note.

"If I was GSP, I'd probably hang them up," said Hughes, now vice-president of athlete development and government relations for the UFC. "Here I am a guy that lost my (last) two fights and I'd love to get back in there (to finish on a win). And Georges got his hand raised the last fight."

"So if I had to give advice, I'd say, 'You want to get out? Get out.'"

Bouchard makes Wimbledon final

Beats Halep to advance. Third time's the charm as Canadian phenom reaches first Grand Slam title match

Canada's Eugenie Bouchard stumbled in her first two Grand Slam semifinal appearances this year.

The third time proved to be the charm Thursday at the All England Club.

Bouchard defeated Romania's Simona Halep 7-6 (5), 6-2 to become the first Canadian to advance to the women's singles final at Wimbledon. It was the latest achievement in what has already been a historic run for Bouchard at the sport's most prestigious event.

"After doing well in the past few (Grand) Slams, I've been believing since the beginning of the tournament that I can do really well," she

"I totally feel like I belong, and I'm just so excited for the next match."

The 20-year-old from Westmount, Que., has yet to lose a set in her six matches so far at Wimbledon. No Canadian had ever reached the women's singles quarter-finals here in the Open era — never mind the final — before Bouchard.

The 13th-seeded Bouchard will next face sixth-seeded Petra Kvitová on Saturday.

"To get to my first Grand Slam final, it's very exciting. It's what I've worked so long for, you know," Bouchard said. "So I'm just proud of myself for today's effort."

Argentina to face Belgium blitz

World Cup. Red Devils coach sets up quarter-final match as team versus individual talent

So far none of Argentina's opponents has been able to stop Lionel Messi.

Perhaps Belgium has what it takes. But even if it doesn't, the Red Devils present a fresh challenge for Argentina at this World Cup.

For the first time in Brazil, Argentina faces an opponent with attacking potential that rivals its own.

"We will have to adapt, but what really interests me is to see how they will adapt to us," Belgium coach Marc Wilmots said.

Argentina has struggled on its road to the quarter-finals, relying on single moments of Messi magic to break stalemates against mostly defence-oriented teams.

On Saturday in Brasilia, it's up against a young, sparkling team that's considered a dark horse for the title. Even though it needed extra time to prevail against the United States, Belgium unleashed offensive qualities in that game that could present major problems for Argentina's sometimes shaky defence.

Belgium fired 38 shots, half of them from midfielders Kevin de Bruyne and Eden Hazard, and strikers Divock Origi and Romelo Lukaku. An impressive performance by U.S. goalkeeper Tim Howard kept the score down.

Meanwhile, Argentina's attack hasn't been as fearsome as predicted. Centre forward Gonzalo Higuain is scoreless after four games and his attacking partner Sergio Aguero is out injured. Ezequiel Lavezzi is replacing the Manchester City striker but was largely ineffective against Switzerland.

Then there's Messi.

The little genius has delivered when Argentina needed him most, scoring in every group stage match and setting up Angel Di Maria's extra-time winner against Switzerland in the round of 16.

In a tight game, the Swiss shackled him successfully until his decisive run in the 118th minute.

"We knew that we would face a situation like that, but that's football and we had luck on our side," Messi said.

Wilmots was unwilling to compare the strengths of the two teams but noted that except for a few players, Argentina's performance at the World Cup has exposed some weaknesses.

Netherlands vs. Costa Rica

12 In the other quarter-final, Costa Rica will be attempting to shut down the Dutch striking partnership of Arjen Robben and Robin van Persie, who are looking to get back on the scoring sheet after combining for six goals in their team's first two matches but failing to find the net since. The Netherlands are the top-scoring nation in Brazil with 12 goals through four games heading into Saturday's quarter-final in Salvador.

France vs. Germany

"There is a form of insouciance with the younger players. They're full of life, that's what you expect from a younger player. But it's also a question of quality."

France coach Didier Deschamps, explaining how his young club will deal with the pressure of playing powerhouse Germany in their World Cup quarter-final on Friday in Rio de Janeiro. Go to metronews.ca for more World Cup coverage.

Brazil-Colombia. Colombian fans unite around contender

Soccer-crazed country

No country's fan base is apparently as dedicated as Colombia.

- Out of 19 surveyed in a pre-World Cup poll done by YouGov.com, just six per cent of Colombians weren't interested in soccer, followed by Mexico with eight per cent and Argentina with 10 per cent.
- The U.S., by contrast, had a 60 per cent apathy rating.

Cup ends it will be like a passing fad, and we'll be back to our old habits."

Not since Colombia drubbed Argentina 5-0 in a 1993 World Cup qualifier has the South American nation of 48 million been so enthralled by the beautiful game.

"Colombia is going to make it to the final because it has the fundamentals and preparation, and (the players) have great courage and desire," said Leonardo Soto, a 23-year-old paralegal in Bogota. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The euphoria in soccer-mad Colombia is deafening, and wonderfully contagious, ahead of Friday's do-or-die World Cup match against host Brazil.

Never before has the nation made the quarter-finals. Some are even waxing poetic about World Cup unity accelerating the pace of 18-month-old peace talks to end a half-century of conflict that has claimed some 220,000 lives.

Half the population seems to be wearing the canary-yellow national jersey, even on days Colombia isn't playing. And the merrymaking, from singing in the streets to collective game-watching on huge screens in public parks, is often so unrestrained that many big-city mayors have imposed bans on alcohol sales on game days.

The fear, of course, is that it all will be fleeting and the violence and intolerance that have long plagued the Andean nation will re-emerge at the tournament's end.

"Soccer has always worked as a tool of union and a tool for nation-building," said Alexander Castro, a National University sociologist. "But soccer is also as ephemeral as a particular game. And when this World

Battle lines drawn down middle

Paul Stastny shifted from the Central Division champion Colorado Avalanche to the Central Division runners up in St. Louis when he signed a four-year, $28 million US deal with the Blues on Tuesday. DOUG PENSINGER/GETTY IMAGES

NHL free agency. Centres being hoarded in chase for Western Conference supremacy

St. Louis Blues general manager Doug Armstrong targeted Paul Stastny in free agency. But before he even had the chance to sign him, the Dallas Stars traded for Jason Spezza.

"I've got to say I was a little bit nervous this morning when Dallas made their acquisition what our Plan B would be," Armstrong said.

Such is life in the Western Conference, where contending teams are playing an escalating game of "Can you top this?" specifically down the middle of the ice. Having a strong one-two punch of centres is necessary given the Los Angeles Kings' duo of Anze Kopitar and Jeff Carter and now the Anaheim Ducks' combination of Ryan Getzlaf and Ryan Kesler.

"If you want to be one of the elite teams, you have to have it," Stars GM Jim Nill said. "You look at the other teams that are winning on our side now, you need to have two elite centre-men."

Nill came from the Detroit Red Wings, who won Stanley Cups thanks in part to having Steve Yzerman and Sergei Fedorov and later Henrik Zetterberg and Pavel Datsyuk. In Dallas now, he has Tyler Seguin and Spezza.

The Stars need them to compete in an ultra-competitive Central Division, let alone the Western Conference. The NHL's new divisional playoff format makes that a necessity.

While Anaheim has to worry about getting through cup-champion Los Angeles, Dallas has to contend with Jonathan Toews and now Brad Richards with Chicago, Alex Steen and Stastny with St. Louis and Matt Duchene and Nathan MacKinnon with the Colorado Avalanche.

Armstrong said Tuesday that the Blues' first goal had to be dethroning the Avs, who finished first when St. Louis scuffled at the end of the season. Enter Stastny, signed to a $28-million US, four-year deal.

"I would highly recommend your services to anyone. My truck sold in the weekly Thursday auction and I received a cheque the next day. Perfect Service! Thank you."
- Brian

"Thanks very much for handling the sale of my Odyssey van. It was my first experience dealing with ADESA Winnipeg and the information provided and the speed with which my sale was handled were both a pleasant surprise. Having the vehicle picked up was a big help and the fact that it was sold almost immediately for an amount in excess of our asking price was very satisfying."

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

You have to accept what is taking place in your life, even though you may not approve of it. There are times when even an Aries must bend with the breeze and this is one of them. Do what you have to do.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You like to take the initiative but today you will have to yield to the whims of those who do not share your sense of adventure. It may be frustrating but you can't change it so don't let it upset you.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

There will be times today when you could scream at people who refuse to see sense but keep quiet. Your way of doing things may indeed be best but no amount of threats will change their minds.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Don't worry if you upset someone today because you need to let others know you won't be pushed around. It may mean the end of a friendship but that's a small price to pay for securing your freedom.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Yes, of course, you have a right to say what you think but don't forget that others have the right to hit back if they so choose. If you clash with someone whose ideas are at odds with your own there could be fireworks today.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

What happens over the next 24 hours will bring you down to earth with a bump but maybe that's good. Your head has been up there in the clouds a bit too long. It's time to come back to reality.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You have allowed certain people to get away with things they did not deserve to get away with. Now you must balance things out and see to it that they pay for their mistakes. Next time, don't let things get so out of hand.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If there are any loose ends in your affairs, at home or at work, you must deal with them over the next 24 hours. If you leave them flapping in the breeze they are sure to trip you up sooner or later — most likely sooner.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

This may be a difficult day for you but it can also be a day when you learn something to your advantage. If you are torn between the future and the past, choose the future. If you are torn between your friends and money, choose friends.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

There is no point trying to force the pace because the Sun opposing Pluto in your sign won't let you — and will also remind you where the real power lies. Also, focus on finishing what has been started.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The quality you most need today is patience. Come the weekend you will be able to start doing things again but over the next 24 hours control your urge to push ahead. Starting too soon may be worse than not starting at all.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

For some reason you seem to be afraid of your own shadow — even though things in your life are going well. Don't let fear hold you back from doing something creative today. Once you start your confidence will return. SALLY BROMPTON

You deserve credit from someone who's credible.
